Beaded Apron Tunic in a Party Gown

SUCH a pretty party gown, in which one of those beaded garteries is featured, is shown here. The bodice and apron-tunic, of beaded net, is a new development of the ready-made bodice and tunic affairs that have so delightfully helped out in the making of evening gowns. The straight-hanging front, with frill of lace falling below the waist line, is the most up-to-date of style touches. Just now fashion does nothing to the waist line but ignore it. She would like to have all her devotees forget it, and a great number of them do.

The dress is of crepe de chine made with straight-hanging skirt with some drapery near the bottom where the left side vanishes under a hemmed bias edge at the right. The bodice is the simplest imaginable, a "baby waist"—that is, a plain gathered front and back with short plain sleeves. It is merely a foundation and background for the beaded bodice of the tunic.

The sleeves are finished with a narrow spangled band like that at the side of the apron-tunic.

The bodice of the tunic covers the underbodice back and front. A narrow fringe of beads finishes the short sleeves. At the back the bodice may be finished with a girdle or the frill of lace, somewhat scantier in fullness, may be extended around the figure. A flat tassel of beads finishes each side of the tunic at the bottom.

These beaded garments are shown in all the light colors and in black.
Black and silver and black and gold on black net are among the showiest.
Gold net with gold spangles and beads is in high favor. The tunic and dress match in color, as a rule.

The small corsage bouquet of satin roses worn at one side of the lace frill is a detail that should not be overlooked. It is much more than a detail in the costume.

Dainty Footwear for Evening

THE day has come when displays of elegant footwear may be said to rival displays of jewelry in brilliance.
Judging from the dressy shoes and slippers which fill the show cases of the shoe shops, and those of departments in the great stores, the advec-tives which have been used in describing gowns and hats will find themselves associated in the future with clothing for the feet. It will require time to convey any idea of the daintiness and brilliance that characterize the newest footwear for evening.

Black patent leather combinations with white kid make up a great number of the handsomest slippers. But, besides these, there are combinations of bronze, gold and silver with fabrics and slippers of these fancy leathers alone, as well as slippers made of fabrics alone. The array is dazzling and in point of variety bewildering.

Just now there is a liking for white satin on which gold or silver figures are thrown up in embroidered designs. These are finished with small but most brilliant buckles of rhine-stones. Certainly such slippers deserve to be called confections in footwear. But to get any idea of the variety which confronts the purchaser, just the display in a single show case may be described to give a clear idea of the leading style-feature for this season.

First there is a satin novelty called the Polcinna slipper. It is a plain, beautifully shaped model with short vamp, somewhat pointed toe and French heel. At the back the satin extends upward to the ankle, where it is fastened to a velvet band. This band encircles the ankle, fastening with two small pearl buttons at the side. One may choose this slipper in white satin with black velvet collar, black satin with white velvet collar, silver cloth with black velvet, or in all black.

Next to it stand the Empress, quite deserving of its royal name with black satin vamp and white satin quarters. Very plain, very beautifully finished and very elegant, the Empress is shown in this single combination.

A third strikingly beautiful black-and-white slipper has a black satin vamp and heel, with quarter of white satin extended over the instep in a strap. The edges of the slipper and strap are bound with black satin and this new creation is fastened with a double buckle of brilliant rhinestones at the side. One may have it in all black or all white, either of them handsome enough but having not quite the snap of black and white and rhinestone in conjunction.

Next comes a quiet model in bronze kid having a tongue embroidered with bronze beads, and then a tango tie in bronze laced across the instep with ribbon which ties about the ankle. These are to be had in other materials and colors.

Less showy, a slipper in dull kid is exquisitely shaped and supplied with four straps across the instep. The toe and straps are beaded. This is made in white or in bronze, with beads to match. Then comes a marvel in white satin and gold brocade and after it an array of plain satin opera slippers in all the evening colors.

Truly she who is looking for something new and beautiful in slippers will have no trouble in finding all that she is looking for, and more, too.
For there are other showcases filled with other slippers.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Blue and Black Tulle.

A black satin evening gown has very attractive sleeves. There are deep blue tulle foundation sleeves that reach over the hands, and over these shirred sleeves, equally long, of black tulle.

The soft folds of tulle and chiffon at present introduced on the bodices are wonderfully becoming.

Education.

Education is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of nature, under which name I include not merely things and their forces, but men and their ways; and the fashioning of the affections and of the will into an earnest and loving desire to move in harmony with those laws.—Huxley.

Exceptionally Good at Carving.

M. K. sends from Manhattan, Kan., an obituary of a physician in a neighboring city in which this sentence is found: "By his skill as a surgeon he carved out for himself a place and name such as only real human service can claim or is ever likely to attain."
—Kansas City Star.

Defenses of Babylon.

The River Euphrates flowed through the city of Babylon, and on each side of its banks the walls of the city were carried up to a height as great as at any other point, so that even during a siege the city was as formidably defended on the river as on the land side.

Surely Liberal!

"And are the divorce laws so very liberal in your section?" "Liberal!
Say! They are so liberal that nobody ever heard of a woman crying at a wedding out there."—Detroit Journal.

Make Him Sweat.

At the bedside of a patient who was a noted humorist five doctors were in consultation as to the best means to produce perspiration. The sick man overheard the discussion and, after listening for a few moments, he turned his head toward the group and whispered with a dry chuckle: "Just send in your bill, gentlemen, that will bring it on at once."

His Original Sin.

An Indian who was a candidate for the ministry and was asked before the presbytery the important question, "What is original sin?" answered that he didn't know what other people's might be, but he rather thought that his was laziness. There are many who could truthfully give the same reply regarding religious activities.—The Christian Herald.

Music of the Future.

London has listened to a futurist orchestra composed of whistlers, thunderers, cracklers, gurglers, murmurers, rattlers, roars and buzzers. To get an idea of what it must have been like sit in a New York apartment house neighborhood in the open window season while all the tango music machines on several blocks are in full blast.—New York World.

Dog Was Progressing.

A friend whom I visited occasionally had a bright boy three years old.
His father had bought him a fine dog and the boy was fond of the dog. He was looking forward to teaching the dog some amusing tricks. A number of weeks later, on calling to see the family, I asked the boy what tricks the dog could do. He said: "Oh, he waggles his tail and things."—Exchange.

An Unfortunate Race.

"Ghosts? Why, of course there are ghosts," said a man at the club recently. "Churchyards are full of ghosts.
And no wonder churchyards are full of them. After he's been kicked and cuffed and abused all his life, where is the man whose ghost, especially on these balmy summer evenings, doesn't enjoy a quiet sit-down in the moonlight in order to read his epitaph?"

Unrivaled as Guerrillas.

As guerrilla fighters the Cossacks are unequalled and no lines of communication are safe from their sudden dashes. An enemy's train, no matter how close behind the fighting forces it may be, can never be sure of safety from marauding Cossacks.
They appear with lightning unexpectedness and attack with startling rapidity and dash.
